You might be wondering why I'm sending a photo of this lion for our "weather assessment"... We had been looking for lions all day in a national park, but no luck. On this day it was over 100 degrees. We had all but given up when we heard over the radio that lions had been sighted at the park next door from our game reserve. Turns out these lions were cooling off in the breeze at the top of a hill. This photo was actually shot through a fence with my new Olympus EM1X using my 75-300 mm lens! But for the heat and the breeze, they would not have been there!

Assignment #4: Neighborhood

From Marty Lyman: “This idea would help both the photo class and my imagination creative class but how about taking a photo of something that reminds you of your neighborhood? It could be lots of cars, buildings, a park, garden, walking your dog, political signs, a tree, rock etc., or how about a photo of what in your imagination you would like to see i.e. could be a lone dandelion in grass, or any of the above.”

Submit a striking image of your neighborhood, Your neighborhood should be where ever you are residing this week. Probably should be something other than your own yard or home.

The picture must be taken between now and Sunday (10/16)
